

Voting Rights and Reproductive Rights Advocacy Resources

Voting rights and reproductive rights, particularly abortion access, continue to be under attack around the United States, and 2021 was an unprecedented year for both voter suppressive legislation and anti-abortion legislation. Voting rights and reproductive rights are interconnected. For instance, equitable access to the vote means better representation of our communities and responsiveness to basic needs like comprehensive healthcare, including contraception, maternal care, abortion care, and comprehensive sex education. Further, laws that suppress the vote and restrict abortion access fall disproportionately harm Communities of Color.

Read below for actions you can take to advocate for the freedom to vote and reproductive rights and abortion access.
