

Guidelines for WRJ Microgrants

Women of Reform Judaism is proud to announce a microgrant opportunity for your WRJ-affiliated women's group. Any new or innovative project or program that relates to engagement or social justice qualifies for this grant opportunity.

There are currently two microgrant opportunities available. First, a women's group is eligible for a grant to engage women around timely issues in the pursuit of social justice, including any work related to WRJ resolutions or high-priority issues. Additionally, a women's group is eligible to receive a grant for a program or project that promotes engagement in the areas of sisterhood/community building, spirituality, or personal enrichment and growth. Your program does not have to meet both criteria to apply. Either engagement and/or social justice activities qualify for a grant. Multiple WRJ-affiliated women's groups may collaborate on a program.

Grants between $500-$2,500 will be awarded.* A WRJ-affiliated women's group may only submit one grant proposal per year. The grant funds will be reimbursed after the program has been completed, unless other arrangements have been made.

Grant Guidelines:

Microgrants will be awarded on a rolling basis. Applications for the 2024-2025 calendar year will open on November 14, 2024, and must be submitted by June 30, 2025.

The program or project must be completed by December 31, 2025. Only new and innovative programs qualify. The program must have a significant impact for its target audience. Content, creativity, quality and innovation are all criteria for determining grant eligibility.

Multiple WRJ-affiliated women's groups may collaborate on a program. Only one women's group should submit the application, listing all participating groups. A program cannot be submitted more than once. In addition, we encourage you to partner with other groups within your congregation or community.

Your program/project must conclude by December 31, 2025. Microgrants will not be awarded for ongoing programs, programs to fund the operations of the women's group or temple, or for funds used as a pass-through to support other organizations. Only one submission by a WRJ-affiliated women's group is permitted per year. If the program is awarded a Microgrant, it will not be eligible to apply for an Or Ami Award.

Following the completion of the program, it is expected that the grantee write a 1-2 page grant report documenting the receipts and a statement of impact.

Program/Project Focus

All programs/projects should have at least ONE the of the following themes as a primary focus:

- Engagement in the areas of sisterhood/community building, spirituality, or personal enrichment and growth
- Social Justice, including WRJ resolutions and high priority issues
- Leadership development
- Outreach to other groups
- Diversity, Equity, or Inclusion

Audience:

Identify your target audience and indicate how they will benefit from the program/project.

Impact:

Describe the positive impact this program/project will have on your target audience. Describe ways in which your program/project may create partnerships and build bridges with other groups or areas of your congregation. Describe how this opportunity will engage current or potential members.

Goals:

Clearly state your goals. Discuss how this project/program will achieve these goals and how you will measure success.

Evaluations:

Discuss what method you will use to evaluate the program/project once completed, including both quantitative and qualitative methods. (A Microgrants Committee member will contact you to evaluate and discuss the program once it is completed.)

Connection to WRJ

Your project or program must acknowledge WRJ and include WRJ branding.

Who can apply?

Any WRJ-affiliated women's group or multiple WRJ-affiliated women's groups who collaborate on a program may apply for a grant, as long as the project is initiated or executed by at least one WRJ-affiliated women's group. Only one women's group should submit the application, listing all participating groups.

How to apply

Carefully read the guidelines and application before beginning! Once you begin an application, you will not be able to return to edit it, so you may want to prepare your responses in a word document first.

Applications should be submitted online here. If you need assistance please contact Talia Blank at: TBlank@wrj.org.

The deadline to submit a grant application is June 30, 2025.

Winners will be notified of their grant award in writing by WRJ no later than 75 days after receipt of the submission.

By submitting your application, you authorize WRJ to use this project or program in our videos, website and in other publications.

For more information, please contact WRJ Program Associate Talia Blank at: TBlank@wrj.org or 212-650-4045.

* The social justice grants would not be possible without the generous support of WRJ Immediate Past President, Sara Charney, and her husband Rick Charney, and WRJ Board Member, Deborah Lelchuk, and her husband Dan Lelchuk. Their dedication to social justice is profound, rooted in Jewish values, and helps create a compassionate world for all. We thank them for making this initiative possible.

The engagement grants are made possible by the support of Joanne Fried, who created our Engagement Fund. We thank Joanne and appreciate everything she has done to help WRJ expand our programming and support our sisterhoods and districts.